Maintaining communication between home and school is vital for each student's success. It is expected that each student has a planner daily and records all assignments

This planner is to be used for:

- Recording homework and projects.
- Maintaining communication between home and school.
- Providing consistency for students from class to class.
- Helping students take responsibility for their learning by keeping track of their assignments

As parents, you can use the student planner to do the following:

- Review the use of the student planner with your child.
- Check the student planner on a regular basis. Students should have assignments written down or indicate if there is no homework. (If lost, students should purchase a new one in the office.)
- Communicate with teachers: request teacher conferences in writing and monitor your child's homework.
